"I suppose so," she assented, dismissing the subject. Then she said, smiling up at his troubled old face. "I came in here to show you my new motor suit. How do you like it?"

NOTED WELFARE WORKER TALKS AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins Pleads for More Betterment Organizations

Before a highly enthusiastic audience, Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, of Washington, chairman of the Woman's Welfare Department of the National Civic Federation, spoke to the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon about the work of the organization. Mrs. Hopkins has furthered the work of bettering conditions in countless channels and has had success in many matters which would have been dropped through indifference but for her courage and perseverance.

Many prominent welfare workers of Richmond were the guests of the club. The large audience thrilled under the charm and personality of the speaker and went forth with fresh inspiration for bigger and better things.

From the book of her wide experience as a welfare worker, Mrs. Hopkins drew much that was of interest to her audience. She said that the primary object of the Civic Federation is to improve conditions under which people work and to see to it that they are shielded as far as it is feasible from the dangers and diseases of their occupations. Bad conditions are investigated and improved, with the aid and cooperation of employers. Heating and lighting facilities are looked into in factories and government buildings, the work accomplished in the city of Washington being taken as an example.

The Civic Federation, she said, works wherever there is work to do, and the tasks undertaken go forward with remarkable smoothness in most cases. It works in connection with every other organization. Tremendous tasks, not only undertaken but accomplished with widespread good, were described.

Mrs. Hopkins spoke in detail about better housing conditions. Baltimore, Washington and Richmond struggle with the same question—climate, alleys and the negro. Some of the housing problems found have been simply shocking—unbearable.

In Washington, she said, the Civic Federation is working in Washington with all its might to abolish the alley. She told in graphic fashion of the interest and aid given this work by the late Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President, and paid glowing tribute to this woman whose first duty was to help other people.

Mrs. Hopkins is at the head of the movement to raise funds for a model block in Washington, as a memorial to Mrs. Wilson. Here will be erected model homes and shops, with a playground and a central administration building where, for a small sum, women may do their washing and ironing. They plan to make it a business proposition and stock will be sold. One has been actually approached in Baltimore, the direct result of the Wilson memorial plan.

The Federation has stamped out drinking places near these homes, and thus removed the constant temptation from weak wills. Mrs. Hopkins pleaded for all social welfare work to be united for greater strength. Under our very eyes, she said, the little messenger boys ply their busy tasks to and fro in the city a prey to every wind that comes to spring. The whole principle of child labor is wrong, and the life of the nation must pay a bitter price in another generation. Everybody can do something to help, if we will only drop the petty jealousies and rivalries that infect jealous organizations and all work together for common good. The Jews of New York City have a splendid standard for the country in federating every separate organization for betterment work.

"In housing conditions," she said, "it is your business to know. I did not know" never won a victory. You hear some one say sadly: "Where did Mrs. So-and-So's beautiful baby get diphtheria and die?" And the answer is: "Out of the clothes basket."

"In the alleys in Washington the death rate is 50 per cent higher than elsewhere. The guilt is on our own souls that we allow conditions to exist which make such a death rate."

In no spirit of criticism Mrs. Hopkins spoke of the conditions that greet visitors as they approach the city. "The world has need of every man and every woman," she remarked, "and the woman who has wrought for years in service for others stood yesterday, a splendid radiant figure to urge the women of Richmond to look out upon the fields before them, white unto the harvest."

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be lashed at an account of your fat, but go to any good druggist and get a box of Oil of Scroton capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince any one that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.—Adv.

Science Confirms the Lore of the Indians

Long before the coming of the white man, the Seneca Indians collected mineral oil from the surface of water in pits dug in the oil sands. A French missionary visited the Western Pennsylvania wilderness in 1627 and was told that the crude petroleum thus obtained was good for rheumatism and skin diseases. Used internally, the Indians declared, it killed a serpent that lived in the intestines and caused abdominal pains.

Today the twentieth century physician prescribes mineral oil as the safest, most rational treatment for constipation. Nujol is the modern version of the Indian specific. It is not a laxative or a purgative. Its action is to soften the intestinal contents and so make natural movements easy.

All druggists carry Nujol which is manufactured only by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Avoid substitutes. Write today for booklet "The Rational Treatment of Constipation."
